CHARGING SPEED

1. CATEGORIES OF CHARGING SPEED

CHARGING LEVEL	TYPICAL USAGE
5-10W Standard	Older / smaller smartphones, basic chargers
18-45W Fast ⚡	Most modern smartphones Newer higher-end phones, tablets, select slim laptops
>45W Super Fast ⚡⚡	Newer higher-end phones, tablets, select slim laptops

2. INFLUENCED BY SEVERAL FACTORS

2. Cable Quality and Type

Thicker, higher-quality copper wires help carry more current, enabling faster charging.

Type-C cables are designed to handle higher current and voltage than older USB cables, making them more suitable for fast charging technologies.

1. Power Output

Is the rate at which it delivers energy to the device, measured in watts (W). Higher wattage means faster potential charging.

It's calculated by this formula :

Power (W) = Voltage (V) x Current (A)

1) Limitations :

A device can only charge as fast as its built-in hardware allows. Even if paired with a high-power charger and cable, charging will not be faster (e.g., a 15W phone won't draw more than 15W).

3. Device

2) Charge level :

Most devices and chargers adjust charging speed based on battery level, fast charging usually occurs up to ~80%, after which it switches to a slower rate to protect the battery.

HOW TO CHOOSE A CABLE ?

1. CONNECTORS

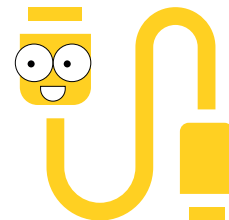

- Input (connected to the charger)

- a) USB used to be the norm, slowly replaced by TYPE-C rarely supports fast speed charging
- b) TYPE-C practical reversible connector supporting faster charging.

- Output (connected to the device)

- a) MICRO USB becoming obsolete and mostly used by older devices and accessories
- b) LIGHTNING reversible connector used by some of Apple's devices (older iPhones, iPads, and iPods)
- c) TYPE-C becoming the universal standard due to EU regulations.

By 2025, news devices introduced in the EU market must be with TYPE-C connector. Many modern devices already use TYPE-C for its convenience and faster performance.

2. CHARGING SPEED

INPUT / OUTPUT	MICRO USB	TYPE-C	LIGHTNING
USB	5-12W Standard	5-12W Standard	5-12W Standard
TYPE-C	X	18-240W Fast ⚡ / Super Fast ⚡⚡	18-30W Fast ⚡ (using a certified cable)

3. LENGHT

- a) < 1M : Common length included with many devices
- b) 1M : Standard everyday use
- c) ≥ 2M : provides extra reach for comfort but may slightly reduce charging speed due to higher cable resistance.
